

ABSTRACT

The invention provides methods of increasing the production of aromatic carboxylic acids from a host cell via manipulation of the yhqRQP operon encoding a family of efflux proteins. Up-regulation of all or a subset of the genes in the yhqRQP were additionally found to enhance tolerance to aromatic carboxylic acids toxicity.